TEAM NOTES

- Kansas allowed only 17 points in the first half, the fewest allowed in any half this season. Kansas previously allowed 19 points in its win over TCU on January 28.
- The Wildcats' 41 points are the fewest the Jayhawks have allowed in a conference game since holding Nebraska to 39 points inside Allen Fieldhouse on February 17, 2007.
- Kansas and Kansas State combined for 100 points on Wednesday, the fewest points since combining for 90 points (53-37) against Oklahoma State on March 7, 1999.
- Kansas held Kansas State to shoot just 31% (18-of-58) from the field on Wednesday, the lowest shooting percentage KU has allowed in a conference game this season and the fewest overall since holding Omaha to shoot 27.4%.

INDIVIDUAL NOTES

- Junior Ochai Agbaji started his 70th career game on Wednesday, starting all 70 games consecutively.
- Kansas senior Mitch Lightfoot drew his team-leading 12th charge this season. He drew 14 charges as a junior (2018-19) and 16 in 2017-18.
- Kansas senior Marcus Garrett scored a team-high 14 points on 5-of-9 from the floor, marking his 33rd career game in double figures and ninth this year. Garrett has now led the Jayhawks in scoring in six career games, four of which have come this season.
- Redshirt freshman Jalen Wilson scored 11 points, marking his 17th double figure scoring effort this season, including his seventh straight.
- Redshirt freshman Dajaun Harris swiped three steals against the Wildcats on Wednesday, marking his fourth game with multiple steals this season.
